| Main Ideas: Civil Society of Department of Political Science organized "Taqreer 2.0", the second edition of Annual Inter College Debate Competition on 'Duties or Rights: What are more important in a Democracy? ' The event was illuminated with participation of numerous students from different colleges. Considering the diversity of students, the society provided a platform, where students can compete in their comfortable medium. Since, it was competition, rules were pre-specified in both Hindi and English, timer was provided to the students on their screen itself, along with prescribed time period for questions. Participants competed choosing one ideological stand as per the topic either Duties are more important or Rights are more important in a Democracy. Students proficiently elaborated on the topic and many of them quoted Mahatma Gandhi and highlighted that how in Hind Swaraj he observed that "Real rights are a result of the performance of duty". Rights and duties are closely related and cannot be separated from one another. For every right, there is a corresponding duty. The State protects and enforces rights and it is the duty of all citizens to be loyal to the state. Thus a citizen has both Rights and Duties. Considering the fact that theme was highly debatable with diversity of opinions, event covered innumerable arguments. Participants came up with countless ideas, thoughts, and arguments which fruitfully served the purpose of debate. It ended with a vote of thanks by the President of Civil Society , Ms. Shivani Rai. We are looking forward to many more thrilling events like these in future. | |
