MAIN IDEAS

The Department of Political Science organised a webinar on Friday, the 21st of January 2022 in which Professor Anupama Roy (Department t. of Political Science) from Jawaharlal Nehru University was invited to give her precious and knowledgeable advice to the students. The webinar started with the wise words of Dr. Indrajeet Singh (Head of Department of Political Science Department) following this, Arnav a student of Political Science, presented the speaker's bio. Post that the speaker started up with her speech on 'Citizenship and Debate in Contemporary India' she focused upon three things – History of citizenship, legal frame, and fault line of citizenship. She explained that citizenship means equal and free membership. Further she explained about democracy and state power, idea of belonging citizenship. She also compared present citizenship with past. After the informative words by ma'am, students were welcomed to bring up their questions. She answered them very efficiently, along with student's teachers also interacted with her.

The interactive nature of the webinar made it a very insightful and vibrant experience and students had a lot of knowledge and information by the end of the session.

Gayatri, the student of Political Science proposed a vote of thanks to the honourable speaker. At last ma'am gave her short conclusive vote of thanks to everyone. Thus, this webinar was interactive, insightful and vibrant in nature and approach.
