Main Ideas. The civil society of Department of Political Science organized a webinar on, 'The Crises of Afghanistan and its Impact on India,' on September 23, 2021. The event was enlightened by Mr. K.C. Singh, an acclaimed civil servant, and former Indian ambassador to Iran and UAE. The respected speaker delighted the audience by sharing valuable information on the Afghanistan issue, considering it to be a most debated concern in contemporary period. Mr. K.C. Singh started with giving a historical context of events, so that a firm connection with the current incidents can be comprehended. The speaker mentioned when we come to Afghanistan everyone knows the immediate reality. However, if we look back, we can see in Mughal period, when there were three major empires, they were having Muslim rulers, so balancing each other. However, this balance got disrupted after the decline of Mughal empire. It is after this period, the scenario started changing. Since gradually, there was emergence of the visibility of phenomenon such as concern of radical Islam, Wahhabi Islam. It is the combination these elements: Wahhabi Islam with radical Islam which played a crucial role in affecting and impacting the international dynamics. He mentioned this is also a humanitarian concern, you can't let people of Afghanistan starve because of some people. How global community will now balance this? There is a dilemma how things will shape. Thoughts to be done who can do what in this situation, can India do something? Will Chinese be some help? If some nation thinks of taking something in return, even that requires first stabilization of Afghanistan, then any other thing can be expected. These are all questions, but India has some cards, like we can give developmental assistance, people of Afghanistan there knows we have only done good to them and only by maintaining moderate politics in India, we can deal with Taliban. But again, we have BJP government, so we do not know what reaction we will get from where. After the in-depth deliberation, the event moved towards questions and answer session, where audience put forward their curious questions. The event ended with the vote of thanks.
